The Chief Justice said:

“Before calling the first case for argument this morning, it is appropriate for us to note that today, for the first time in twenty-four years, a Term of the Court commences without our colleague Justice Thurgood Marshall sitting beside us on the bench. Following his retirement this summer his colleagues on the Court joined in sending him a letter which reads as follows:

September 12, 1991

Dear Thurgood,

Your decision to retire from the Court brings a sense of sorrow to all of us. For twenty-four years you have been a colleague, and for twenty-four years you have had an important voice in the shaping of the deci-sional law of this Court. We will miss your counsel in our future deliberations, and will likewise miss the innumerable "tall tales" with which you delighted us.

Everyone who sits on the Supreme Court will be remembered in the history of American constitutional law, but you are unique in having made major contributions to that law before becoming a member of the Court. Your role in the battle for equal treatment of the races would entitle you to a prominent place in that history had you never ascended the bench at all. You leave behind you landmarks from your career as a lawyer, as well as from your career as a judge.

We bid you farewell from our common labors, but look forward to your continued society off the bench. We trust that retirement at this time will help you regain the good health which is our wish for you.

Affectionately,

William H. Rehnquist

Byron R. White

Harry A. Blackmun

John Paul Stevens

Sandra O'Connor

Antonin Scalia

Anthony M. Kennedy

David H. Souter."

Justice Marshall said:

"Dear Colleagues,

Thank you for your gracious letter. As I read it, I was reminded of the wonderful times we have spent together both personally and professionally over the years. It has been a great honor for me to serve on the Court, and I am saddened that I must now give up the daily fare—the oral arguments, the Conference discussions, the opinions and dissents—that has provided me such enormous intellectual and emotional satisfaction for 24 years.

More than that, though, I am saddened that I will no longer have the opportunity to enjoy regular contact and communications with all of you. Your warmth and collegiality have been of great encouragement to me; I will miss that—and all of you—deeply.

Although I will not take part in the work ahead, I am hopeful the Court will meet the upcoming challenges, and I am grateful for the time we have spent together. Because of the bonds we have formed, I rest assured that though my active service on the Court ends, our ties of friendship hold fast.

Affectionately,
Thurgood.”

Justice White said:

"On Thursday, October 17th, Natalie Cornell Rehnquist, the wife of Chief Justice William Rehnquist, died of cancer at the National Institutes of Health.

Nan, as she was known, was determined to live her life to the fullest even as she battled her long illness. She was always cheerful and incredibly uncomplaining, always thoughtful of other people. Her courageous struggle inspired the love and admiration of everyone who knew her. She will be sorely missed.

Nan was born in San Diego, was graduated from Stanford, and after her marriage in 1953, lived with her husband in Phoenix until they moved to Washington in 1969. Here, she worked tirelessly and lovingly at the Lutheran Home for the Aged as President of the Home's Auxiliary and for 8 years on the staff as director of volunteer service.

Whatever Nan was involved in, she was involved wholeheartedly, whether it was the Lutheran Home, her International Neighbors Club, her considerable duties as the wife of the Chief Justice, or as the wonderful mother of their three children. She truly cared.

Also, one cannot omit mentioning her outstanding talents as a gourmet cook and expert in all types of sewing and needlework. She was as gifted as she was loving. We are all fortunate to have known her.

As a mark of our sorrow and of our affection for her and for our brother, the Chief Justice, and for his family, the Journal of Court will record that the adjournment of this Court today is in honor of Natalie Rehnquist, her life, and her memory."

APPEAL—SUMMARY DISPOSITION

No. 91-434. Hollis Watkins, et al., Appellants v. Ray Mabus, Governor of Mississippi, et al. Appeal from the United States District Court for the Southern District of Mississippi. The judgment is affirmed except with respect to appellants' claim that the preclearance requirements of Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act apply to the changes in the absentee ballot procedures adopted for the September 17 election ordered by the district court. The completion of the September 17 election has rendered this claim moot with regard to the relief sought, i.e., an order enjoining the September 17 election for failure to comply with preclearance requirements. Accordingly, we vacate that portion of the judgment below with instructions to dismiss the relevant part of the complaint. Webster v. Reproductive Health Services, 492 U. S. 490, 512-513 (1989); United States v. Munsingwear, Inc., 340 U.S. 36, 39-40 (1950). Justice Blackmun and Justice Stevens would note probable jurisdiction and set the case for oral argument.
